Just before the wedding, the bride ran away with an old boyfriend and to avenge the offense and the dishonor, the bride's family went after them and killed the man. This "cortijo" has been used many times by film directors as a setting for movies such as "The good, the bad and the ugly" or "Death has a price".

INTRODUCTION

This plan of activities emphasizes the cultural values present in the Spanish Literature, especially the work and life of one of our most important poets and playwrights, Federico García Lorca, who was born in Granada 1898. He lived in Almería as a child and one of his greatest dramas "Bodas de Sangre" was inspired by a real tragedy that took place in this area so we can say there is a solid connection between the writer and Almería. He also lived in Granada, Madrid and New York. García Lorca died at the age of 38, after he was shot dead by Franco's military forces in Granada at the beginning of the Spanish Civil War in 1936.

Lorca's life and works are inspired by passion and Spanish and Andalusian cultural values such as Flamenco music, the daily life in the caves of Granada and other rural areas, bullfighting (viewed by Lorca as a ancestral pagan ritual), horses (a symbol of men's erotism, life and death), the moon (a symbol of beauty, erotism, fertility or death), the metal weapons as the beginning of tragic events, etc.
